

The Cellar Door

To celebrate the 10th anniversary of Margan, Andrew and Lisa opened their stylish cellar door and restaurant at the Broke Home Block vineyard.

The striking rammed-earth building graces the peaceful, rural setting of Broke. Through the impressive entry, visitors are brought into the beautifully decorated tasting room where they can begin their Margan winery experience.

With all grapes grown and transformed into wine on site, Margan wines reflect a unique terroir of the Hunter Valley and the distinctive soil that the vineyards are planted in. "On the whole, I choose not to blend wines from different vineyards or varieties because I firmly believe that each wine should be a true expression of its variety and region," says Andrew. "Every variety I grow has its own unique set of characters and structure that are affected significantly by the climate they enjoy, the soil they are produced from and the winemaking style I prefer. The quality of Margan is controlled from the vineyard right through to the consumer."

All of Margan's current release wines are available for you to taste, appreciate and buy, as well as some limited release wines such as their 'White Label', exclusively available at the cellar door.

The relaxed atmosphere focuses on simplicity, allowing the winery fare to be enjoyed without distraction.
